When Edward Austin Sheldon founded the Oswego Normal School in 1861, little did he know it would grow into a comprehensive college of more than 8,200 students enrolled in a College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; a School of Communication, Media and the Arts; a School of Business; a School of Education; a Division of Extended Learning and a Division of Graduate Studies. The commitment to excellence envisioned by Sheldon continues to the present day. Many Oswego graduates, some of them recipients of previous scholarships, have gone on to distinguish themselves in their careers and communities, not only in New York State, but across the globe.

We thank the many benefactors (alumni, parents, children, friends, faculty, staff, emeriti and businesses) whose support of SUNY Oswego’s learner-centered mission has made these award opportunities available for our current students.
When Edward Austin Sheldon founded the Oswego Normal School in 1861, little did he know it would grow into a comprehensive college of more than 8,200 students enrolled in a College of Liberal Arts and Sciences; a School of Communication, Media and the Arts; a School of Business; a School of Education; a Division of Extended Learning and a School of Music, Theatre and Dance. Today, the university is comprised of five academic units and the School of Extended University Studies, offering a wide range of undergraduate and graduate programs. Students come from all 50 states and more than 65 countries; alumni have gone on to distinguish themselves in their careers and communities, not only in New York State, but across the globe.

We thank the many benefactors, alumni, parents, students, friends, faculty and staff who have contributed generously to SUNY Oswego’s learner-centered mission. Your support has made possible the quality education and individualized experience our students receive.

We also recognize the many contributors who have made it possible to offer these scholarships and awards, and we appreciate your generous support.

SUNY Oswego is an equal opportunity educator and employer.
