Tubby Q, the co-rec basketball champions and Jellyfish, the men’s champions have repeated their championships from the fall semester in the spring basketball tournaments.

Tubby Q was able to squeak by The Beaters and Bearz in the quarterfinals and semifinals by just one point each, showing that they know how to get it done in clutch situations.

Tubby Q went on to dispose of Oswego City Thunder in the championship game 62-45 to take home the championship.

“It was the last chance for most of us to play together, so it was good to go out with a win,” said team member Kelsey Clark.

Tubby Q also won the intramural league in the fall semester, but had to make adjustments this year with new players on their roster. “This year's tournament was awesome because we did add a few new people to our team, so it was fun having the usual people play with the new ones, and the mix ended up working well for us,” said Clark.

On the other side of the tournament, Jellyfish also was able to capture their second championship in a row in the men’s division.

Jellyfish has been dominant in the division this past year, and they showed off their skills with a 73-42 win over Wranglers in the championship game.

It wasn’t all smooth sailing for the team however. After blowing out their first two opponents, Jellyfish were given all they could ask for by Gravy Train in the semifinals. Still, they managed to show championship resilience and come up with a tight 44-39 win.

Overall however, Jellyfish proved they were dominant over there competition and were able to repeat the success they had last semester with another intramural championship.

Although both Tubby Q and Jellyfish proved superior this season, a new semester next year will bring new teams and challengers competing for the right to wear the t-shirts and call themselves intramural champions.
