Campus Recreation Report
By Ross Bentley 11/5/13

Although it may be too early to determine who’s a serious contender in the men’s competitive division of intramural basketball, the co-rec and recreational divisions are shaping up.
In co-rec, it’s The Phoenix Suns who are on top of the league at 4-1 with the regular season portion of their schedule now finished. The Phoenix Suns managed convincing wins over Landshark All-Stars, and Metards, and hard fought wins as well against O’Doyle Rules and The Dirty Flamingo’s. Just behind them in the division are Kings and Queens who currently hold a 2-1 record and have an impressive 67-42 blowout wins over The Phoenix Suns on their resume. O’Doyle Rules at 3-2 and The Dirty Flamingos at 2-2 will figure to be in the hunt as well come playoff time.

Over in the recreational league, Suite Dremz and Size Don’t Matter are a combined 6-0 in the league thus far, earning 4-0 and 2-0 records respectively. Suite Dreamz will enter the playoffs without a loss, and Size Don’t Matter will join them if they can get by The Republican’ts (0-3), and Not Cops (0-2) in their final two games. Zeebs at 3-1, has responded nicely to a blowout loss against Size Don’t Matter to win three straight, and Oswekobeians and Monstars are also above .500 with 2-1 records.

Over in the intramural floor hockey league, Anne Frank’s Army Tanks are making their names known in the men’s competitive division. At 3-0 they currently stand alone on top of the division and their 31 goals have made them a force to be reckoned with. Michael Hollowell is leading the way for them scoring at an impressive 4.33 goals per-game average totaling 13 in the three contests. Behind him Marc Mundry has scored nine goals despite playing just two games.
In men’s recreational Zeebs has been the standout team thus far at 3-0 outscoring their opponents 17-2. Led by Daniel Mills and Dylan Soeffing have led the way for Zeebs, who are just one of two teams in men’s recreational yet to lose a game.
