The Helen Bohmer Daly Quest Award for a Undergraduate Student Scientific Research Paper

Professor John Daly has initiated the Helen Bohmer Daly Quest Award for Undergraduate Student Scientific Research paper. The award, which will be announced at the Quest Award Ceremony, will include a $1,000 check.

Deadline: First Wednesday in April (students must have submitted an abstract for Quest)

Eligibility: The award is to be given annually to an undergraduate student who is presenting his or her original research at Quest as an oral or poster presentation but also submits a paper to the Student SCAC to consider, and whose research involves the use of the scientific method. Eligible research might include controlled laboratory studies, data collection, mathematical modeling, demographic research, or other quantitative research involving controlled experimental methods. As a rule, students presenting qualitative or critical research are not eligible.

Application:
1) The student's faculty sponsor for Quest must submit a brief letter via www.oswego.edu/grants supporting the application of the student. “HBD Quest Award for a paper” should be in the subject line.
2) The student must submit a paper (max 10 pages) summarizing the research. The paper may be the one from which the Quest presentation is derived. In any event, it must include an abstract of less than one page; a review of relevant literature including the research question he or she is investigating; a report of the method; a report of the results; and discussion of the results. Submit it via www.oswego.edu/grants supporting the application of the student. “HBD Quest Award for a paper” should be in the subject line.
