Re: Planning for Quest 2006

As you know, SUNY Oswego traditionally sets aside one day each academic year for the recognition of academic achievement and creative and scholarly activities. That day for the 2005-2006 academic year is April 19, 2006. To insure that the entire campus community (students, faculty, and staff) may participate in all Quest activities, classes will be canceled from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. The only activities planned for that day should be events that are part of the Quest 2006 programs. No activities should be scheduled that would hinder the participation of students, faculty, or staff.

Because of the importance of this day, I encourage faculty to consider adding to their spring 2006 course outlines an activity that encourages student participation or attendance at Quest 2006. I believe that it is especially important to have our students become aware of, and be inspired by, the scholarly activity of faculty and their own peers.

Please be an active participant in Quest 2006 and please encourage your students to do so as well. For more information, please contact Bill Bosch, Director, Center for Excellence in Learning and Teaching, x-2875 or bosch@oswego.edu. Thank you.
