Strategies for Major Exploration

Learn more about my Interests, Values, Abilities, and Strengths through Inventories and Assessments:

- Focus2 - a career and education planning tool that includes assessments and a customizable portfolio
- StrengthsQuest - StrengthsFinder is an online assessment that identifies your “top 5” Themes of Talent
- MBTI (Myers-Briggs Type Indicator) - a personality assessment that identifies your preferences as it relates to who you are and why you want to work; including the best work environments and career tasks
- Strong Interest Inventory - an interest inventory that matches your interests with career fields

Investigate all majors and minors that SUNY Oswego offers:

Review the Undergraduate Catalog and departmental websites for majors/minors of interest. Get an understanding for course work and degree requirements for different majors. Complete these activities to narrow your search:

- “Major-Elimination” activity → find out what majors interest you the most
- “Dissect a Major” activity → helps to identify if a potential major is truly a good fit

Take a course in a major or minor of interest:

Many majors offer introductory courses. Many of these courses fulfill general education requirements and can be taken to explore majors.

Job Shadow/Informational Interview:

Spend a day with a professional in the field or interview a professor about their discipline. This is a great way to learn firsthand about a career field or major.

Other networking opportunities include:

- Talk to an upper-class student about their major
- The Alumni Sharing Knowledge \(A.S.K.\) program connects students with alumni in their career field of interest
- Utilize the informational interviewing videos <https://www.oswego.edu/career-services/networking>
- Check out “Candid Career” Informational Career Videos online!

Service Learning and Community Service:

Volunteer in the community either independently or through Service Learning, GST102. Choose a site related to a field or major of interest to acquire skills and knowledge of real-world settings.

<https://www.oswego.edu/community-service/>

Meet with a Career Coach:

Meet with a Career Coach in an industry area you are exploring. To learn more about our Career Coaches, visit our website: <https://www.oswego.edu/career-services/connect-career-coach>

Self Assessments

Career Services offers a variety of assessments that provide you with information about your strengths, values, interests, and skills. If you are interested in completing an assessment, email majorexporation@oswego.edu

StrengthsQuest

StrengthsFinder is an online assessment that identifies your “top 5” Themes of Talent. StrengthsQuest allows you to explore and strengthen your talents, use your strengths to improve your academics, discover a major and career path that builds off of your strengths and learn how to use your strengths to excel.

MBTI (Myers-Briggs Type Indicator®)

MBTI identifies your preferences and provides information about your unique type (there are 16 distinct types). This is a great tool to help you understand who you are and what majors would be a good fit for you. The MBTI gives you information about how you orient in the world, take in information, make decisions and structure your life.

Strong Interest Inventory®

The Strong Interest Inventory is a tool that matches your interests with majors and career fields. It helps you identify your interests, preferences, and personal styles and provides information you need to select a major and career you can be passionate about.

Focus2

Focus2 is a web-based program that includes five online self-assessments (work interest, personality, skills, values, and leisure interests), a career portfolio and information about careers.
