Major and Minor Elimination

Directions: Using pages 3 and 4 of majors and minors, take a moment and cross out the ones that you are certain you have no interest in. Next, circle the majors that you see as possibilities or if you would like to learn more about.

List the majors/minors you circled as possibilities here:

_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________
_____________________________________________________________________________________

Now categorize the majors/minors in 2-3 groups that make sense to you:

Group 1 Title: ________________________________________________

Group 2 Title: ________________________________________________

Group 3 Title: ________________________________________________

Strategies for Exploring and Confirming Majors

- Learn more about my Interests, Values, Abilities, and Strengths through Inventories and Assessments
  - Focus2 – A career and education planning tool that includes assessments and a customizable portfolio.
  - StrengthsQuest – StrengthsFinder is an online assessment that identifies your “top 5” Themes of Talent.
  - MBTI (Myers-Briggs Type Indicator) – A personality assessment that identifies your preferences as it relates to who you are and why you want to work; including the best work environments and career tasks.
  - Strong Interest Inventory – An interest inventory that matches your interests with career fields.

- Investigate all majors and minors that SUNY Oswego offers
  Review the Undergraduate Catalog and departmental websites for majors/minors of interest. Get an understanding for course work and degree requirements for different majors. Complete these activities to narrow your search:
  - “Major-elimination” activity □ find out what majors interest you the most.
  - “Dissect a Major” activity □ helps to identify if a potential major is truly a good fit.

- Take a course in a major or minor of interest
  Many majors offer introductory courses. Many of these courses fulfill general education requirements and can be taken to explore majors.

- Job Shadow/Informational Interview
  Spend a day with a professional in the field or interview a professor about their discipline. This is a great way to learn firsthand about a career field or major. Sophomores may utilize the Alumni Sharing Knowledge (A.S.K.) program to connect with alumni in their career field of interest. To learn more visit http://www.oswego.edu/alumni/ask
  Other networking opportunities include:
  - Talk to an upper-class student about their major or connect with the expert faculty/staff in that department.
  - Utilize the Informational Interviewing videos https://www.oswego.edu/career-services/networking
  - Check out “Candid Career” Informational Career Videos online! oswego.edu/career-services/careers

- Service Learning and Community Service
  Volunteer in the community either independently or through a Service Learning, GST302. Choose a site related to a field or major of interest to acquire skills and knowledge of real world settings.
  https://www.oswego.edu/community-service/home

- Leadership in Your Field (GST303), Internship (GST498), or Professional Skills Preparatory (GST101)
  Gain insight about a major or career field that interests you. Visit center for Experiential Learning in the Compass, 145 Campus Center for more information about experiential learning.

Self Assessments

Career Services offers a variety of assessments that provide you with information about your strengths, values, interests and skills. If you are interested in completing an assessment, email majorexploration@oswego.edu

StrengthsQuest
StrengthsFinder is an online assessment that identifies your “top 5” Themes of Talent. StrengthsQuest allows you to explore and strengthen your talents, use your strengths to improve your academics, discover a major and career path that builds off of your strengths and learn to use your strengths to excel.

MBTI (Myers-Briggs Type Indicator)®
MBTI identifies your preferences and provides information about your unique type (there are 16 distinct types). Understanding your personality type/preferences is the foundation of major exploration and this is a great tool for helping you to understand who you are and what majors would be a good fit for you. The MBTI gives you information about how you orient in the world, take in information, make decisions and structure your life.

Strong Interest Inventory®
The Strong Interest Inventory is a tool that matches your interests with majors and career fields. It helps you identify your interests, preferences, and personal styles and provides information you need to select a major and career you can be passionate about.

Focus2
Focus2 is a web-based program that includes five online self-assessments (work, interest, personality, skills, values, and leisure interests), a career portfolio and information about careers.
