Proposal to create a Research Council

Background:
Research, scholarship, and creative activities comprise one of the three pillars by which faculty are evaluated. For many of us it is also part of our identity as faculty. There are a number of committees on our campus that approve or fund faculty research, including the Human Subjects Committee, IACUC, and the Scholarly and Creative Activity Committee. Most grants that faculty get are funded through the Office of Research and Sponsored Programs. We do not have one institutional space for faculty to review, provide guidance, or be consulted on policies related to research.

We propose to add a Research Council to the Faculty Assembly so that shared governance can inform research policies.

Purpose:
The Research Council will review and recommend policies and procedures relating to moral and ethical concerns of research and other matters involving support and furtherance of research within the University.

The Research Council may also provide consultation on:
- Scholarship of teaching and learning
- Grant buyout policies
- Facilitate transparency in policies
