

Project BLEND Presents:

Collaborative Action Research to Improve Leadership Practice

with Dr. Dolores Grayson

Dr. Grayson is an independent consultant and the former CEO and Senior Partner of GrayMill, an educational consulting agency and distributor of the Generating Expectations for Student Achievement (GESA) Program. In over 40 years as a professional educator she has been a science and physical education teacher, a school and district administrator, a program developer, a grant writer, and so much more. She is a nationally known public speaker and researcher whose workshop will focus on collaborative action research, and how the utilization of this process will improve overall leadership and administrative practices.
