Many people fail to realize what is happening behind the scenes in America. Behind all of the cute animals, memes, and the red white and blue that symbolizes our country. Although the law enforcement and justice system is meant to serve and protect, what is happening is violence and brutality that is hardly ever penalized. In many cases, the power that is given to officers results in family violence. As well as police brutality, especially targeting minorities. Most never acknowledge this disgraceful stain. And the mass incarceration rate simply reflects this idea. "the land of the free" what must happen for people to speak up about the ways we "protect" our country?
